Walter To Be Honored By River Basin Group Today

Rep. Francis E. Walter

2 Gubernatorial Nominees Mull Over Primary Results

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The two nominees for governor sized up the outcome of Pennsylvania's primary and gave their versions of why things happened the way they did Thursday.

Democratic Richardson Dilworth said his Republican adversary, Rep. William Scranton, got about 86,000 more votes than he did because the GOP went in for heavy spending and was all shook up by a fight within for the governorship nomination.

Scranton said in Washington that Dilworth lost votes because of disaffection in the Democratic party, especially in Allegheny County and Philadelphia.

"Spent Money" Dilworth said the campaigning of J. Collins McSparran, master of the State Grange, against the organization-backed Scranton really frightened the Republicans. Scranton won by more than 525,000 votes.

"The Republicans," Dilworth continued, "spent a very great deal of money. We spent no money outside the regular campaign money. They had a sharp contest. We really didn't have any."

Scranton said that, in his view, the primary afforded "clear indications the GOP is on the march and determined to win in November."

"Predicts Close Race" Scranton was especially jubilant over the outcome of the voting in his own Lackawanna County — which he said was the largest primary victory ever given a Republican there—and also in neighboring Luzerne.

Dilworth, although expressing confidence in Democratic victory, asserted: "This is going to be a close race—about as close a race in politics as you can get."

Latest tallies showed Dilworth polled 674,586 votes in 9,119 of the state's 9,157 precincts. Scranton got 732,172 of the 937,281 Republican votes cast in 9,089 precincts.

In the senatorial balloting, Republican Rep. James E. Van Zandt held on to his vote lead over Democrat Joseph S. Clark, seeking a second term. Neither was opposed.

Returns from 6,793 precincts gave Clark 548,036. In the same number of precincts Van Zandt had 663,410.

Astronaut Awaits Challenge Of Space, Aware Of Danger

Bulletin

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The intended orbital flight of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter was postponed Thursday night from Saturday until next Tuesday so additional altitude sensing equipment can be installed in his Aurora 7 spacecraft.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The specter of death on the frontier of space is overshadowed by the great expectations.

The astronaut, 37, said several times in recent weeks as his globe-girdling orbital flight drew nearer that an abiding faith in God sustains him at all times.

He is acutely aware that a mechanical failure during his flight at 17,500 miles an hour more than 100 miles above the earth could cause his death.

"But I'm not afraid," he said during a recent interview. "You can't be afraid when you have such great expectations — what you are about to see and about to experience. It's impossible to be afraid."

Carpenter said the conquest of space is an adventure for which he is willing to sacrifice his life, if need be. He feels the risks are far outdistanced by the challenge—the chance to be a pioneer in man's exploration of the universe.

All Are Aware The Navy lieutenant commander's awareness that death will be riding his flanks, waiting to close in, is universal among the seven Mercury astronauts. And they agree that the millions of Americans who watch their flights on television should be prepared to witness it.

Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the Marine astronaut who blazed the U.S. orbital trail Feb. 20, told a congressional committee: "We do not envision every flight coming back as successfully as the three we have. There will be failures, there will be sacrifices."

Meeting Agenda The agenda for the annual meeting follows:

1. Action on minutes of second annual meeting.
2. Treasurer's Report.
3. Report of Nominating Committee-Election of Directors.
4. Report of the Finance Committee.
5. Report of Water Quality Committee.
6. Report of Public Education & Information Committee. (a) Discussion of recommendations.
7. Report of Recreation, Fish & Game Committee. (a) Discussion of resolution re: National Recreation Area.

She and others in her group immediately were taken to a holding camp where some 3,000 were fed, held overnight, and returned by army and police trucks Saturday to the Red China border.

Hong Kong officials make no attempt to register the names or conduct a roll call at the holding camp but there have been no reports of escapes from the camp.

Salan Weeps As Comrade Asks Pardon

PARIS (AP)—A former battlefield comrade brought a moving appeal, suggesting pardon, into the treason trial of ex-Gen. Raoul Salan Thursday.

Gen. Jean-Etienne Valluy, former Allied commander for central Europe, called for understanding and humility in judging Salan, captured leader of the terrorist European Secret Army Organization in Algeria.

"If today some are killing with blood-stained folly," said Valluy, "perhaps it is because they were being killed. I believe that a gesture, a plea from the heart would be an element of appeasement. I believe that the people should be given proof of meekness. Others have been pardoned."

Third Day

Valluy, now retired, spoke as a defense witness at the stormy third day of Salan's treason trial before the special high military court. It is generally expected that the court will sentence Salan to death for his part in the April 1961, generals' revolt in Algiers, and as the secret army leader.

Angry classes earlier between prosecution and defense attorneys threw the court into turmoil.

The defense claimed there was a conflict between the testimony of Jean Morin, former government delegate-general in Algeria, and Gen. Charles Allieret, former military commander in Algeria, on the question of special police sent to Algeria.

Jean-Louis Tixeront, Vagnacourt, head of the defense battery of attorneys, wanted Morin and Allieret to appear face to face for questioning.

Atomic Sub Skipper Loses His Command

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP) — The skipper of the new nuclear-powered submarine Permit, damaged in a collision with a freighter off the Golden Gate May 9, has been relieved of his command, the Navy disclosed Thursday.

The officer, Cmdr. Ernest R. Barrett, was relieved as of Thursday.

The new commander will be Cmdr. Robert H. Blount, USN, currently on duty with the Navy in Washington, D.C. The 12th Naval Dist. said he might arrive before the Permit is commissioned at Mare Island May 29.

Meanwhile, Lt. Cmdr. C. F. Carlisle, commander of the submarine Swiftfish, at Mare Island for overhaul, has been assigned as temporary commander.

The Permit, running submerged in precommissioning trials 210 miles off the Golden Gate about 11 p.m. May 9, scraped the bottom of the Malson freighter Hawaiian Citizen. Both vessels were damaged.

The Navy conducted its own investigation of the collision and refused to let any of its officers or men testify at a Coast Guard inquiry last week.

Neither the Navy nor Coast Guard has reported the results of its inquiry.

Believed Back In Red Chin

Plight Of Chinese Girl Touches Hearts

HONG KONG (AP) — Weeping Lee Ying apparently has been sent back to Red China after clutching briefly at freedom.

A photograph of the sobbing girl refugee, taken as she learned she could not stay in this overcrowded British crown colony, attracted worldwide attention and sympathy.

The plight of the girl, 19 years old, holding a ragged handkerchief to her face, prompted American offers of a home and a job. The offers were cable to The Associated Press bureau here, which distributed the picture, the U.S. consulate and Hong Kong officials.

Although the method of handling the return operation makes positive confirmation impossible, it is 99.9 per cent certain that Lee Ying was sent back to

JFK Discusses Estes Case, Laos Crisis, French Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said three times Thursday his administration brought the scandalous Billie Sol Estes case to light and that it "is staying right on Mr. Estes' tail" — with 75 FBI agents.

Kennedy said the administration is pushing a complete inquiry into operations of the Texas whose financial dealings have touched both Congress and the executive branch. The President assured a news conference that any federal employees who have committed improprieties — four already have quit or been fired—will be subjected to immediate action and discipline.

Kennedy said, and repeated twice, that the Estes case was brought to public attention when the federal government indicted him on April 5.

The government asked for $300,000 bail, the President said, and he is sorry it was cut to $100,000.

Among other matters coming up:

LAOS: What are the chances of getting caught in a shooting war, he was asked.

Kennedy said the three Princes of Laos will have a conference. "I hope they produce a government," he said, which is the U.S. objective.

In reply to a further question, Kennedy said he can give no idea now how long U.S. troops will be kept in Thailand. That will depend on the situation, he said.

He was asked what he would consider satisfactory conditions for a cease-fire.

Kennedy said this country would prefer a withdrawal as nearly as possible to the positions held by the pro-Communist troops a week or so ago. But he said the thing immediately important is peace between the forces where they stand now.

As to the reason for dispatch of troops to Thailand, Kennedy said this government is concerned over the breach of the cease fire, the advance of Communist troops into Laos, and the possibility that the breach of the cease-fire might become a general one endangering the safety of Thailand.

The United States therefore communicated with the Thai government, he said, and Thailand invited the help of the U.S. armed forces.

EUROPE: The question was raised whether the differences between France and the United States are a hazard to the Western Alliance.

Kennedy said the Europeans must decide on whether they want confederation but the United States does want a voice in the problem of Berlin because "the moment of truth comes" in the fate of that city, it will be the United States which will be expected to take action.

The situation will become increasingly dangerous he said, if one nation after another joins the club of those having atomic capability.

But if France has decided it wishes to push ahead with the development of nuclear weapons, he said, it will of course do so.

Kennedy gave his opinion it will be a long time before the nations of Western Europe feel they can defend themselves without U.S. participation. He said the 300,000 U.S. troops there are obviously not there against the wishes of the countries. The day may come, he said, when Western Europe may feel it can assure its own security, and the United States can be relieved of its present purpose.

But that day has not come, he said, and NATO leaves no question of the intentions of the United States and its allies.

Asked whether relations with West Germany are "back on the track," Kennedy said he thinks they are.

He said this government is waiting for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's reply to U.S. proposals on access to Berlin.

Waiters' Strike At Waldorf Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Service employees ended a two-day strike at the Waldorf-Astoria Thursday and the world famed hotel quickly was restored to its routine of elegance.

From its kitchens came the warm bird to settle amid snow-white napery atop restaurant tables. From its cellars came the accompanying cold bottle, to enhance the meals for its 1,600 guests.

Its public restaurants were closed Wednesday, and its banquet rooms put picnic sandwiches before guests who paid up to $20 a plate for this meager fare.

The strike began Sunday in a waiters' dispute over banquet tips and snowballed Tuesday into a full-fledged wildcat walkout of some 700 doormen, bartenders, bellhops, chambermaids, elevator operators and kitchen help.

The result was quiet chaos, a catch-as-catch-can pattern of hotel life such as never before had confronted the stately Waldorf.

The worst weekend ever at the Waldorf began Sunday when waiters walked out for 90 minutes to protest having to pass the plate for banquet tips in the grand ballroom. They demanded a flat percentage of banquet receipts as their tip.

A compromise was reached. But again on Tuesday the waiters walked out after eight of their union officials had been fired in reprisal for the Sunday demonstration.

This time they were joined in sympathy by other service employees.

The New York Hotel Trades Council, the over-all union organization for the service employees, condemned the strike as unauthorized from the outset. It finally persuaded the strikers to return to their jobs while the firing of the eight waiters is being negotiated under grievance procedures.

Britain Will Help British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced that Royal Air Force units would be sent if they are requested. The British Air Ministry said rocket-equipped jet fighters were standing by at Singapore ready to hop here.

Authoritative sources in Canberra said Australia probably will send 200 officers and men of a commando-parachute company with previous experience in SEATO maneuvers in Thailand.

Khrushchev Urges Peasants To Build 'A Bulgarian Iowa'

TOLBUKHIN, Bulgaria (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev rolled through the Bulgarian countryside Thursday in an open sea-green Cadillac advising the natives on how to turn this backward farm district into a "Bulgarian Iowa."

Shabbily dressed peasants dropped their hoes and scythes and stood for up to three hours under a hot sun along the highways waiting for a glimpse of the state visitor from Moscow.

Khrushchev switched from the Soviet-built auto he has used for the first four days of his visit here to a 4-year-old American convertible for the 31-mile trip to this district town from the Black Sea resort of Varna.

Tolbukhin, a town of about 45,000 population, was named after a Soviet marshal whose army freed Bulgaria from the Nazis during World War II.

Impromptu Speech In an off-the-cuff speech, Khrushchev touched briefly on international affairs, saying: "Peace is necessary but first of all we need labor. Peace is not won by prayers. We must be strong, and to be strong we must work to create strength. Our enemies, the capitalists, should understand that they cannot take risks with our peoples."

Later, at an agricultural institute, the Soviet leader settled down for more than 90 minutes to discuss Bulgarian agricultural problems with the head of the research station, Prof. Kiril Enikov, Bulgarian Agriculture Minister Ivan Prumov and local agricultural specialists.

At one point, obviously irritated by Enikov's droning report, Khrushchev broke into say: You are a professor and you are used to reading lectures to students. But we are not students. We are old and experienced hands, so please excuse me if I interrupt you with questions."

When Enikov ended his flood of statistics, Khrushchev called on I. Shevchenko, an assistant secretary of the Soviet Communist party Central Committee, to give a report on his reconnaissance of this area during the past two days.

Shevchenko, a straight-talking farm expert, outlined his findings, many of them obviously discomfiting to the Bulgarian leaders.

Humid Weather Forecast

THE LOCAL weather will continue warm and humid today, weathermen note.

A high of 90 today. It will be generally fair and mild tonight, with mercury readings ranging from 60 to 68.

Widely scattered thunder-showers may occur in the area late today. However, the good "wetting down" needed by the parched forests is still not in sight.

With half the month gone, the area has received only .33 of an inch of precipitation. Normally, the rainfall average for the first 16 days of May is 2.15 inches.

Over the past month, rainfall measured .64 of an inch against 3.5 inches in other years.

The foggy haze yesterday resulted in zero visibility at Mount Pocono and other high points. However, there was no interruption in operations at regional airports.

The temperature averaged 69 degrees, nine notches above normal, yesterday.

Dislikes Term 'Featherbedding'

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—An official of the Pennsylvania Railroad said payment to employees for work not performed should not be called "featherbedding" because this implies the employee concerned had something to do with its creation and preservation.

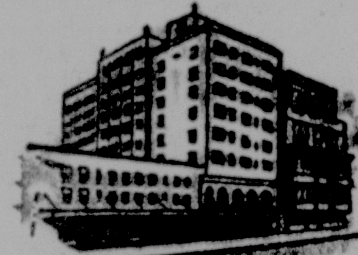

John E. Chubb of Philadelphia, assistant manager of the Penn's Philadelphia region, said Wednesday night:

"Usually, this is not the case, for there are many thousands of good, conscientious individuals—many of them right here on our railroad in the Cumberland Valley—who are being paid wages for work they don't do simply because they are bound by antiquated labor contracts"... over which they have no control.

Chubb addressed a dinner meeting of the Hagerstown Traffic Club. He also said "featherbedding" costs the nation's railroads $500 million a year and eliminating it would mean more, not less, employment for the industry.

5th Suspect In Holdup In Luzerne Jail

SCRANTON — The fifth suspect in the Brodheadsville branch bank holdup of last Oct. 20 has been returned for arraignment.

Guarded by a U. S. marshal, Joe Lee Sims of Osceola, Ark., arrived here Wednesday night after a train ride from Chicago and was lodged in Lackawanna County Jail overnight.

Yesterday he was removed to Luzerne County Prison by Deputy U. S. Marshal Leo Feigenbaum.

Two admitted participants in the holdup, Otis Zellner and Everett Williams, Jr., also are in Luzerne County Prison. They pleaded guilty to participating in the $8,650 robbery at a recent hearing before Federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan.

The other suspects in the case, Robert Hall Jr. and Vandy Hall, New Jersey brothers, entered innocent pleas and are being held in Lackawanna County Jail.

The five were employed as migrant workers on a farm near Brodheadsville around the time the West End Branch of the Monroe Security Bank & Trust Co. was raided, FBI agents said.

An arraignment for Sims will be scheduled here before Judge Sheridan, who is presiding this week at Federal Court in Harrisburg.

Not Too Wide

DON'T use too wide a brush when painting with the idea that the wider the brush the quicker you'll finish. For painting walls, a 3-inch, 3½-inch or 4-inch brush is advised, depending on the experience and strength of the painter. Narrower brushes are suggested when enamelling, because enamel is more heavily bodied than flat paint.

Remove It

A "must" for every paint or varnish job is to remove every furniture polish. Paint products trace of wax, oil, grease or furniture polish. Paint products will not adhere well to these substances. Paint thinner, denatured alcohol or proprietary removers will do the job for you.

State Orders Hearing

HARRISBURG (AP) — A hearing on a state order that could result in 19 Lackawanna River communities having to install sewage treatment facilities was postponed Thursday for two months.

William Gross, counsel for the state Sanitary Water Board, postponed the hearing, originally set for Thursday, at the request of counsel for most of the communities.

But the board turned down a request that the site of the hearing be changed from Harrisburg to the Lackawanna River area. The hearing was called as the result of a Water Board order last December reclassifying the river from an acid category to a category requiring complete treatment of sewage. Communities discharging into streams in the acid category do not have to treat sewage.

The motions for postponement and change of site were made by Joseph M. McDade, Scranton city solicitor, who also represented about a dozen other Lackawanna River communities. James J. Ligi, Scranton, represented Blakely and Joseph Reardon represented Avoca.

To members of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau interested in his famous sister, Grace, he confided that he had "put the arm on a certain close relative" and that the principality of Monaco had signed up for the show. So has the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which has reserved the stage area, he said. Kelly also outlined his own connections with the Poconos where his mother served as a camp counselor, his sister as a camper, and where he himself has visited.

Kelly, former Olympic sculling champion, was the first speaker at the dinner meeting of the Vacation Bureau at the Penn-Stroud Hotel as the guests of Eric Schuchard, who introduced the new assistant manager of the Penn-Stroud, Charles Diefenderfer.

William Altier, president, also introduced the new executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Hotel Assn. Melvin Freeman who, on his first visit to the area, praised it as the most beautiful spot he had visited and the resort operators for adding to its charms.

Principal business of the meeting was the clarification of new regulations on sanitation, foods, and drugs as they apply to resort and restaurant operators of the area. Representatives from the various departments of the state of Pennsylvania outlined the new provisions and answered questions raised by those provisions.

THE COMMONWEALTH will continue its case in Monroe County Court today against Percy Green, Kunkletown RD 1, charged with unlawful manufacture of liquor.

Judge Edward G. Biester, of Montgomery County excused the jury yesterday after a lengthy discussion of technicalities of the case, during part of which the jury was withdrawn at Judge Biester's direction.

Taking part in the discussion were the Jurist, Dist. Atty. James R. Marsh; John J. Peniz, Jr., attorney for Green, and Monroe County Judge Fred W. Davis.

Green was arrested in February after U. S. Treasury and Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board agents raided his Polk Township farm.

Four stills which the agents claim they seized on the farm were brought into the court room yesterday.

Found Guilty
In other court action, a jury found Thomas E. Miller, 515 Main St., Stroudsburg, guilty of fornication but innocent on a charge of bastardy. Judge Biester sentenced him to pay a $100 fine and costs.

Theodore Brewer, East Stroudsburg RD 2, pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to stop at the scene of an accident. Judge Biester gave him a one-year suspended sentence in Monroe County Jail, placed him on probation for that period and fined him $100 and costs.

MORA Plans Trips To Area Homes

MORA Club recently completed plans to attend several points in the county during the summer months.

They will attend the summer home of Percy Marvin, Columbia, N. J., and also hold a joint picnic with the Leisure Hour Club on the property of H. Edward Werkheiser.

June 20 club members will make a trip to Bath where they will visit the cement plants there.

At the recent meeting a movie, "The Call To Young Men," was shown. It portrayed the training of the USAF Cadets in the Air Force Academy, Denver, Colo.

Road-E-O At Eastburg Tomorrow

THE ANNUAL teen-age road-e-o, sponsored by the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held Saturday at the parking lot of East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School.

Written tests will begin at 10 a.m. with the actual driving starting at noon. Registrations will be accepted at the high school.

Trophies will be awarded first, second and third place winners. First place winners will compete in the state road-e-o in June.

Girl, 11, Hurt Riding Bike

NANCY KITSON, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Kitson, 719 Brown St., Stroudsburg, was admitted to Monroe County General Hospital yesterday for treatment of injuries sustained when she fell from her bike at Brown and Queen Sts.

A hospital spokesman said last night the child's condition is fair. She suffered skin abrasions and a possible head injury. She was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Miss Blatt Explains Office To Boroughs Association

MISS GENEVIEVE Blatt, secretary of State Internal Affairs, was the guest speaker last night at the 23rd annual dinner meeting of the Mid-Eastern Counties Association of Boroughs in the American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg.

Her theme was, "What the Office of Internal Affairs Can Do For You."

Miss Blatt pointed out that the office publishes many manuals to aid local officials such as tax collectors, mayors, business managers, assessors and others. "These are but a few of the services we have at our disposal to pass on to the individuals in government, aiding them in carrying out their job," she said.

"Other services we can render to the lower levels of government are topographical and geological maps and bulletins. Some give the overall picture of the state while others pinpoint the individual county," she said.

The office also supervises the county sealer of weights and measures.

She said, "From time to time the sealer of weights and measures must bring his weights to Harrisburg to be checked. Ours (the state's) are checked in Washington, D. C., and the national weights and measures are sent to Brussels, Belgium, for a check with the International Weights and Measures."

Miss Blatt added that Pennsylvania is the first and only state to publish a Statistical Abstract for the state.

She pointed out, "This book is the best seller of all the publications sold by us. Its uses are unnumbered and contents the most up-to-date information that can be gathered."

Snyder Toastmaster
Harold Snyder, Stroudsburg Borough Manager, was master of ceremonies and prior to introducing Miss Blatt to the 157 people, introduced the various officers of the association, and the mayors of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, Joseph Small and Thomas Kistler.

Each of the mayors introduced their councilmen, their wives, friends and other borough officials.

Mayor Small presented Miss Blatt with her name and the key to Stroudsburg on it.

Entertainment for the program was provided by Leonard and Robert Kranendonk. Each sang several musical selections and then joined in a duet.

Prior to adjourning, Snyder announced the next meeting of the executive committee of the association would be held in Nazareth at a date to be announced.

He added the next general meeting of the association would be held in Wilson on the last Friday in September.

Penn State Building Plans

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — A far-reaching master plan was unveiled by Pennsylvania State University Thursday, designed to triple the capacity of the school's 14 commonwealth campuses by 1970.

University President Eric A. Walker as a vital part of Penn State's long range program to accommodate 35,000 students by 1970.

The greatly expanded system can be developed "well within the financial means of the commonwealth," Dr. Walker declared.

He said $12.8 million would be needed over the next six years to develop the physical plants at the 14 campuses and to provide new class room and academic buildings.

The selection of a fitting memorial will forever stand as a tribute to the departed loved one.

Federal Universities?

Businessmen, long used to having the Government enter into direct competition with them, are expressing sympathy these days for public and private universities.

Dr. Alvin M. Weinberg, director of Oak Ridge National Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission, already has made some progress toward setting up what could become a chain of United States Universities.

It seems that cut-backs in research on atomic reactors left some AEC scientists with time on their hands, and perhaps in some danger of losing their Federal jobs.

But a Federal bureau doesn't shrink willingly, no matter if its functions do, and the AEC bestirred itself to find other work for its employees to do. The interior Department agreed to assign to the Oak Ridge atomic lab some research on purification of salt water.

Ordinarily, this water work would have gone to a university, or to a private research organization. Uncle Sam, which expresses such concern about the problem of our educational system, had taken the giant step of going into competition with it.

But Dr. Weinberg, cheered by his victory, wasn't satisfied. He has now proposed that this and other Federal laboratories should take on the instruction of graduate and undergraduate students. He says that in order to give the appropriate degrees, the labs should become full-blown universities.

Dr. Weinberg says this is a good idea because we need more scientists. But the problem seems to be to find young men and women who are capable of absorbing such education and are willing to do so. The $90-odd million spent on the Defense Education Act—which was supposed to increase our supply of scientists and engineers—admittedly has not turned up any more such people than were to be found before.

Neither would a Federal university, or a chain of them. Apt students might be diverted from existing institutions of proven excellence. And our growing Government would be on its way to dominance of one more field.

Reserves And Readiness

It is unfortunate that Defense Secretary McNamara's plan to tighten and modernize the American National Guard and Reserves landed in Congress just as the Marines landed in Thailand.

At times of military crisis backers of reserve quantity are given extra emotional ammunition with which to overwhelm the more sensible backers of reserve quality.

Were logic to prevail there could be no stronger argument for Mr. McNamara's now-postponed streamlining plan than a war crisis like that occurring in Southeast Asia. But Congress has shown a peculiar aversion to logic on this ancient political question of the guard and reserve units.

What the Defense Department proposes to do is eliminate obsolescent reserve units and replace them with units needed in modern warfare. The net result would be a reduction of about 58,000 men; a planned increase in readiness of the remaining 642,000.

Readiness is, in fact, the key. In past wars National Guardsmen and reservists have served with valor. But some of their units were notoriously unready for action. Today the kind of mobilization that would reach beyond the regular Army into these reserve forces would do so with even greater speed.

Certainly control of the guard for civilian uses (riot and flood) should remain in the hands of state governors. But it is hard to see why modernizing the organization for its national defense function should in any way harm its efficiency for civil use.

The Congress acts as a useful reducing salon for many oversized appropriations. This is a poor time for it to adopt its other role of force-feeding the executive on military affairs. Fat doesn't win wars.

The War In Laos

I am used to calling it French Indo-China, which it was in the days when I lived in the Far East and a lively town Saigon was. Today, it is all divided up into Laos, North Vietnam and South Vietnam, but the division is part of the grand design of Red China to reach the Bay of Bengal.

The principal error in Western thinking about Red China is that the Westerner fails to recognize that just as Soviet Russia set out to conquer the world, so Red China plans to expand China to the Chienlung Line which means, in Southeast Asia, that its actual territorial control would have a line from Turkestan to the Bay of Bengal.

Furthermore, Red China is much concerned over its rice supply and whenever it can add rice lands to its own territory, it achieves an enormous victory. Therefore the surpluses in Washington that the Red Chinese should have sent forces to participate in the Laos war is shocking to anyone familiar with the Far East.

Old French Indo-China lies on the borders of Red China and is closely associated with the provinces of Kweichow and Yunnan.

In Yunnan particularly, the peoples are very mixed and some are very close to those of French Indo-China, now called Laos and Vietnam. It is impossible to draw an absolute ethnological line in border territory.

As the Red Chinese plan to reach the Bay of Bengal and to include in China all the territory east of it, it should have been presumed by our experts that victory. Therefore the surprise tervene in any situation which imperilled their hegemony over this area.

Therefore, the disarmament talks in Geneva were a foregone, futile effort because it is the Red Chinese who are not planning disarmament but who are planning imperial expansion at any cost. The Chinese have always called their country, Chung Kuo, the Middle Kingdom. Even Dr. Sun Yat-sen's republican government continued the name, but added the word Republic to it, in a word, the Republic of the Middle Kingdom.

What was actually meant was that China is the center of the universe and that all the rest of the world would have to become satellites to it.

The famous letter of Commissioner Lin Tse-hsu, who brought on the war with Great Britain, called the Opium War, to Queen Victoria in 1839, mirrors the thinking of all Chinese. I shall quote only the pertinent sentences:

"... In your honorable nation, which lies 20,000 li (about 7000 miles) away, separated by several oceans, these ways of God and feelings of mankind are the same; there is no one sooner or later, they would intuitively between death, life, profit, and injury. Our divine House reckons as its family within the Four Seas; and our great Emperor, as though with the goodness of God, offers shelter to all alike, even distant wilds and far off countries sharing with us in life and in the means of nourishment."

"... It may be added that rhubarb, tea, silk, etc., are among the most precious products of the Middle Kingdom, and that if the Outside nations were unable to obtain these, they would be deprived of the necessities of life. That our divine House, regarding all with equal goodness, allows these goods to be sold without stint for export beyond the sea, and extends its favours to sympathy with the foreigner, is solely to model its own feelings upon those of God and Mother Earth."

"... Our divine House controls the myriad nations by a spiritual majesty which is unfathomable; do not say that you were not warned in time!"

Perhaps another paragraph might be cited from Liang Chiao, a recent Chinese philosopher and politician, who attended the Paris Peace Conference in 1919:

"The greatest country in the greatest of the five continents of the world, — which is it? My country, the Middle State, the Flowery Land! The people who number one-third of the human race, — who are they? My countrymen of the Middle State, the Flowery Land! Annals which extend back without a break for over four thousand years — of what country are these? Of my country, the Middle State, the Flowery Land! My country contains four hundred million inhabitants, who all speak what is fundamentally the same language, and use the same script; of no other country can this be said."

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook:

Another Starting Gun! — The dust may still be settling over this week's 1962 primary election in Pennsylvania — but the fact remains that another dust-raiser is already on the agenda, beginning Monday.

That's the day registration books once again open in counties throughout the state for new party registrations — and both parties are determined to give the new and critical registration period the old college try.

When Tuesday's primaries rolled around earlier this week, Democrats went into their intra-party fray with a registration edge over their Republican counterparts of around 16,000 — greatest edge ever enjoyed by the donkey-riders . . . However their increase in new registrations from the previous registration period of last fall rounded out to around only 5000.

"Disappointing" was the understatement comment from top Democratic leaders as they scanned the new registration totals on a county-by-county basis . . . On the other hand, Pennsylvania GOPsters felt rather decently pleased by the affair, feeling they were able to "hold" Democrats down to the comparatively slight increase.

In any event, the week's primary election was not the true or critical phase of 1962 — that's upcoming this fall in the gubernatorial — senatorial-legislative showdown between the two parties . . . This then is the big point toward which both parties are heading registration-wise.

Republicans have taken a slim whiff of hope and encouragement from the dribbling showing by Democrats during the past spring primary registration period . . . They're counting on at least holding this "trend" down in the new registration period ahead . . . They may and they may not!

Over The Trash Can — News-men assigned to the Capitol Hill beat have finally plowed their way out of the paper storm that deluged them during the past several weeks!

Professional press agents hired by candidates seeking office in this week's primary had been grinding out mimeographed press releases by the baleful — no pun intended . . . The oftimes absurd news-frothings — which few inked men bother to take seriously in the first place — at times would accumulate into an inch-thick pile in a single day.

Election day the "storm" suddenly abated — and ended as abruptly as it had started!

lican strategists at this point are certain where they stand in relation to the upcoming fall election campaign . . . It is too early to assess how serious the past primary has been insofar as divided groups and factions are concerned — particularly on the hard-fought Republican side.

The edge in this respect goes to Pennsylvania Democrats, who although they had some tough under-the-table differences, have emerged in far better condition . . . For re-grouping Republicans the chore is not quite so easy or simple.

The one thing that seems to be common to both camps is that both are convinced the upcoming fall gubernatorial runoff is anything but "in the bag" and that no matter how you look at it, a tough, bruising fight is in the offing.

Probably no greater single sports honor ever went to a Stroudsburg young man than the laurels bestowed on Bill Schoonover, former Stroud Union High grid great.

Bill, as we all know, is quite a pigskin merchant. However, we did not realize the esteem Schoonover is being held at Syracuse University — his present gridiron address.

Ben Schwartzwalder, the Orangemen's fabulous builder of champions, has designated Bill to wear Jersey No. 44 during the fall football campaign.

Now 44 is not a number you pull out of a hat and toss at a player, especially at Syracuse. Some pretty fair country gridmen wore that number the past few years.

One was Jimmy Brown, Syracuse's All-American who is about the greatest runner in pro ranks today. Another was Ernie Davis, everybody's All-American at the New York School, who will join Brown at Cleveland this fall.

To say the least, Schoonover is in fact company jersey-wise. But according to Schwartzwalder, the former Mountaineer is quite a hunk of material. In fact, Ben says, "Experts" feel there will be a big gap left with the graduation of Davis.

However, Schwartzwalder doesn't. He indicates Bill can fill the bill.

The Orange coach leaves the door open though. Potentially, Schoonover has all the equipment, Ben evaluates. However, it is up to the lad to spell it out to the fullest, he points out.

This we second, having watched Bill blossom into the ball-player he is today. But we still don't think Schoonover has reached the pinnacle yet. Maybe it won't be this season but we'll wager his name will be on every grid diehard's lips in 1963.

Incidentally Bill had a fine spring practice session at Syracuse, climaxed by a 31-yard touchdown run against an Orange alumni which had 15 professionals in their lineup.

He also lugged the ball well throughout the spring drills, giving usually pessimistic Schwartzwalder an optimistic outlook on the 1962 campaign.

Questions On Estes' Fabulous Finances

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—Congressional investigators digging into Billie Sol Estes' mysterious $245,000 "Washington Project" are uncovering significant clues indicating it may have financed his spectacular rise within a few years as a large-scale operator drawing millions of dollars from the government for storing surplus grain.

The free-wheeling young Texan zoomed from virtually scratch in 1959 in this highly profitable field to ninth largest grain storage operator in the country in 1961.

From evidence so far uncovered, it has been determined that during these few years millions of bushels of government-owned surplus grain were inexplicably shifted from wholly adequate storage facilities in the Midwest, chiefly in Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas, to Texas warehouses controlled by Estes.

Details of the extent and cost of these singular transactions are still incomplete.

But a revealing illustration of Estes' remarkable success in this business is the following: In 1959, when he started storing grain, he received $776,810 from the government for warehousing grain shipped from Texas to Texas. In 1961, this relatively modest sum soared to $3,419,000—and possibly a lot more.

On the basis of what congressional probes have so far ascertained, they have reached two conclusions:

These strange grain storage shifting operations cost taxpayers "many, many" millions of dollars; they were largely the keystone of Estes' maze of other get-rich-quick financial machinations.

Congressional investigators are particularly trying to get at the bottom of three $40,000 checks drawn by Estes in January of this year.

All department and other agency heads are now under direct White House orders to make available immediately all information sought by Senator John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the rackets investigating committee, and Representative L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., head of the House Government Operations subcommittee which has long been probing Agriculture Department scandals.

Similarly, Attorney General Robert Kennedy has "advised" Freeman and Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg to "lay everything before" the McClellan committee. Kennedy was former general counsel of the committee.

The Fountain committee will probably hold the first public hearings on Estes. They are tentatively scheduled for next week.

Old, Old Story—Shifting the storage of large quantities of surplus grain at heavy public expense is nothing new in the Agriculture Department.

Representative Fountain's investigating committee has a voluminous record of such transactions.

actions. One probe brought to light that the Agriculture Department spent more than $27 million to ship grain to the Pacific Coast for storage, although ample empty government bins were available in the Midwest where these surplus commodities were grown.

Following are details of this astonishing affair as recorded in the official files of the Fountain committee:

More than half of these tens of millions of bushels of grain sorghum and corn, already stored in government-owned facilities in the Midwest at a cost of 5 cents a bushel, were shipped to California and Washington State to be stored at a charge of 16½ cents a bushel in private warehouses, such as skating rinks old office buildings and other converted structures.

Transporting this government-owned grain across half the country cost an average of 50 cents a bushel—approximately double what it would have cost to build new storage facilities in the Midwest. Further, the grain stored in California cost the Agriculture Department an additional 2 cents a bushel for the screening required by that state.

Of some 18 million bushels of corn the Department shipped in 1955 to the West Coast for storage from Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, much of this grain spoiled and "had to be sold at a substantial discount."

Two Agriculture officials—Roland Ballou, then Assistant Deputy Administrator for Operations of the Commodity Stabilization Service, and Clarence Palmy, former Association Administrator of the agency—were grilled by Representative Fountain and James Naughton, committee counsel, regarding these extraordinary transactions.

Neither Palmy nor Ballou could remember why these millions of bushels of grain sorghum and corn were shipped to the Pacific Coast for storage, at a cost of $27 million, when ample government facilities were available in the Midwest. Both officials said they could not recall the reasons.

Senator McClellan is checking reports that a senator received some $50,000 in campaign contributions from Estes over a period of years.

Crises Committee — President Kennedy is going to set up a high-level intergovernmental committee to anticipate and solve crises like the one in Laos before they occur.

The advance planning group will be headed by either Attorney General Robert Kennedy, the President's brother, or a high State Department official.

The committee will include representatives from all major government departments, including State, Justice and Defense, as well as the White House staff and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Recommended to the President by Dr. Walt Rostow, chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Council, the "crises" committee will serve as an advisory group to the President.

The committee's two-fold job will be (1) to warn the President of crises in advance, and (2) to make recommendations for U.S. action to head off these crises.

Under the Rostow proposal, a national security policy planning staff also will be set up to help brief the committee on the world's trouble spots.

This staff would prepare "crises reports" based on the latest estimates of anti-U.S. actions anticipated by both friendly and enemy governments.

Secretary of State Rusk, who approved the proposed committee, has recommended that Rostow be named to head up the advance planning group.

However, the President has told aides that he favors having his brother take charge of the "crises" committee in order to increase his knowledge of foreign policy.

Once the chairmanship is decided on, the President is expected to make a public announcement that the committee include congressional "advisers" were turned down by the President.

Social Whirl—Unusual feature of the White House's state dinner next Tuesday for President and Mrs. Houphouet-Boigny, of the Ivory Coast, is a special performance of "Billy the Kid" by the American Ballet Theatre. The now world-renowned dance will be staged in the East Room. The American Ballet put on "Billy the Kid" in Moscow when it toured Russia, with great success.

Inside You And Yours

The Sultan Of Swat

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

One swat is worth a thousand flies—if you swat early in the season!

Crush Mother fly before she has time to bear thousands of offspring 10 or 20 times. You'll help head off a six-legged population explosion that could mushroom into clouds of buzzing monsters.

The swatter merely spearheads your full-scale attack against flies, gnats and mosquitoes. You have to destroy every outdoor insect incinerator. Mosquitoes and some flies hatch in water, others prefer decaying grass and garbage.

Dry up every puddle. Drain clogged roof gutters. Clear away old tin cans. Store pans, basins, barrels and boats upside-down.

Stock ornamental pools with goldfish. Each fish gulps down thousands of unfledged mosquitoes.

Keep a tight lid on every garbage can. Rake up all lawn clippings. Incinerate or bury all garbage that isn't collected.

Fatal Fertilizer Spread some insect-killing compound across your lawn. It's fatal fertilizer for grub worms and other insects. Screen out flying invaders. Screen doors should open outwards. Otherwise, flies and mosquitoes, resting on them, will be whisked into your house.

A dangling cloth, tacked high up near the door edge, helps prevent this. It sets up a counter breeze to blow away insects.

Patch holes in your screens. Some patches come with stickum. You merely press each into place.

Mosquitoes netting can be used to screen over Baby's playpen. Don't forget insect repellents, like 612. It disgusts and revolts most hungry six-legged monsters.

Ambush any snipers that sneak by your outer defenses. Darken the house, except for one light to attract the airborne invaders. When they zoom in, blast with our aerosol bomb.

Natural Swatter The Venus fly-trap plant is a natural fly swatter. Its leaves crush any fly that touches down.

With Venus doing all the work, you're truly the Sultan of Swat!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

LAFF-A-DAY

Vets Plan Memorial Day Parade, Graves Decoration

FINAL PLANS for the Memorial Day parade and decoration of graves were made by the United Veterans of Monroe County this week.

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion, will decorate graves in and near the Stroudsburg on Saturday, May 26. Those in other sections of the county have already been decorated.

The parade will move promptly at 10 a.m. Memorial Day from East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School.

The line of march will be N. Courtland, Crystal and Washington Sts. in East Stroudsburg, across the inter-borough bridge and on McConnell, Fourth and Main St. in Stroudsburg to the Doughboy monument at Court House Square.

En route, the parade will pause while VFW and Legion wreaths are placed on the monument at the Legion home.

The parade will include four divisions, headed by Gateway Post 36, Society of the 28th Division, color guard, police cars and cars for guests. Next in line will be the drill team from Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot, post command members of participating organizations, the Keystone Grenadiers drum and bugle corps and the 28th Division band.

The second division will include Stroud Union High School Band, Co. A, 100th Battle Group, Monroe County Police Reserve, Stroudsburg and Stroud Township Fire Depts. and the Monroe County Civil Defense truck and duck.

The third division will consist of the East Stroudsburg High School Band, Salvation Army, Troop B, Third Recon. Sqdn., Ninth Cavalry, 79th Division, all veterans of Monroe County and the 40 and Eight locomotive.

The final division will include the Shirleyettes, baton twirling group, Lambert Cadets drum and bugle corps, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and riding clubs.

Horatio Haas, Jr., has been named grand marshal for the parade.

Montgomery F. Crowe, former state senator, will be master of ceremonies for the program at Court House Square. In the event of rain, it will be held in the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State College.

The program will include a musical selection by the Keystone Grenadiers, the invocation by Rabbi Bernhard Presler and the pledge of allegiance, led by John C. Mills, Jr., Brodheadsville, winner of the state VFW voice of democracy contest.

Crowe will introduce guests and the memorial services will include a prayer for peace by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas Cawley of St. Matthew's Church, laying of wreaths by the veterans' organizations, a salute by the firing squad from Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot and taps by the Grenadiers.

Following a musical selection by the East Stroudsburg High band, the memorial address will be given by U. S. Rep. Francis E. Walter of Easton.

The playing of the national anthem by the Stroud Union band and the benediction by Major Henry Baker of the Salvation Army will close the program.

Largest Honesdale Firm Eyes Expansion Program

HONESDALE — Honesdale Chamber of Commerce members were informed that one of the community's largest employers is considering an expansion program.

Russell Compton, chairman of the chamber's industrial committee, identified the industry as Banner Footwear Co.

He said the expansion program may eventually involve a local fund drive to finance proposed facilities.

Representatives of the chamber and Wayne Industrial Development Corp. (WIDCO) will meet today with Walter E. Barnes, Banner president, to further discussions.

Scope of the contemplated expansion was not disclosed by Compton. However, he traced development of employment at Banner through the past several years. In 1959, he disclosed, the company had an average employment of 150. This has increased to the present 335 with an expected 1962 payroll of $1 million dollars.

The Banner payroll last week, Compton said, was $22,274. Sixty percent of the firm's employees are men.

The firm occupies a large plant on Willow Ave. and Riverside Dr.

Barnes purchased controlling interest in the company in January, 1951. The firm also has a manufacturing division at Montrose.

Complementary colors should not be used full strength on adjacent areas because each intensifies the other. If you want to use both red and green paint in the same room, for example, one of the colors should be grayed by adding some of its complement to it. Add some green to the red. Another way to moderate intensity is to tint one of the colors by adding white to it or darken it by adding black, thus producing a shade.

FOR CINDER BLOCK
The use of swimming pool paints is not limited to pools. They are the recommended coating for cinder and similar concrete blocks for several reasons. These paints are formulated to resist both the acidity and alkalinity of this building material and will also prevent rust stains from the iron content. Previously unpainted block should first receive a special prime coat that seals its porous surface and keeps the top coat from being unevenly absorbed.

PREVENT RUST SPOTS
If rust spots have formed around nail heads on siding, before repainting, you should rub away the rust with steel wool and prime the heads with rust-inhibiting metal primer. Counter-sunk nail heads should be primed, then puttled.

Ideas To BUILD-REPAIR-IMPROVE

Cash For Modernization

FINANCING a home improvement project is easier than ever today, thanks to liberalized policies both by the federal government and private lending institutions.

The Federal Housing Administration now makes it possible for thousands of families to obtain as much as $10,000 per dwelling unit in an FHA-insured home improvement loan.

Private lenders—banks, housing and loan institutions, and the like—have liberalized their regulations to the extent that most of them are actively encouraging home owners to borrow money for remodeling and modernization.

An important reason for this increased emphasis on lending money for home improvements is the realization that an improved home—one with additional living space, a new kitchen, better insulation, or the protection of such things as a new roof or paint—is worth more money. It also improves the living standard of its occupants and helps create better neighborhoods and communities.

The new $10,000-maximum, FHA-insured loans generally are for homes at least 10 years old, although local FHA officials have the power to make exceptions. Interest is limited to 6 per cent, and the loans are repayable in as much as 20 years.

Still available to all home owners are FHA-insured loans of as much as $3,500 repayable in a maximum of five years.

The House Of The Week

Take Your Choice Of These Vacation Homes

By Jules Loh

ACCORDING to one authority there now are more than a million vacation houses tucked away in the watery and wooded recesses of our nation, and about $5,000 more are being added each year.

At this rate it won't be long before a second house becomes as commonplace as a second car.

So that House of the Week readers can take advantage of the trend while it's still relatively young, we offer a double-barreled selection. They are designs J-19 and J-20 in the series, and a study plan of both will come with an order for either.

One of the houses, by architect Rudolph A. Matren, is a comfortably rustic three-bedroom model. The other, by architect Samuel Paul, is a dramatic A-frame design with expansion features. Both could serve as full time homes, for retirement perhaps, as well as year round retreats.

Dramatic J-19

Architect Paul's basic house consists of a large lounge, dining alcove, compact kitchen, a bath with shower, and storage facilities—all neatly packaged in 840 square feet. A broad plank deck on three sides more than doubles the area.

The main bath has access from the outside, and an additional shower head is located on the deck for quick rinses.

Both features could be regarded as musts for vacation houses at lake or seashore.

The economical A-frame roof structure rises 24 feet, providing ample room for a sleeping balcony over the rear portion of the house. There is a natural stone fireplace on the balcony in addition to the large one in the lounge.

In the rear of the basic house is a long concrete block wing wall which assures privacy and also serves as a starting point for future expansion of up to four bedrooms.

The luxurious deck of this house is built on concrete piers, so that the house is adaptable to any terrain. The A-frame, which rises from the deck, is composed of rafters spaced four feet apart from the deck to the roof ridge. The screened side-walls are recessed to provide clear headroom and, because they carry no loads in this type of construction, can be opened fully to the side decks with a fantastic amount of cross ventilation resulting.

Rustic J-20

Post and beam construction is used for architect Matren's friendly, inviting summer home. The large beams which are exposed in front extend through to the rear and serve as the main roof supports.

This house also features a large balcony, with a full bedroom, overlooking the main floor. The ground level is 875 square feet (not counting the 384 square foot deck) and the balcony level adds 161 square feet.

A neat arrangement of a dual bathroom allows for simultaneous service indoors and out. Another handy feature is the wet-wear closet adjoining the shower, which also is directly accessible from the deck.

The deck, extending around three sides, is made of redwood planking with small spaces between. Its 20-foot-wide front steps provide an added dramatic touch of informality.

The exterior wall finish is grooved plywood put up in large sheets. The result is an excellent interior as well, though additional interior finish might be required for winter use. The ceiling also consists of large sheets of wood-finished siding fastened to the underside of the rafters.

A final accent of comfort and leisure to this charming hideaway is its large stone chimney block with both fireplace and barbecue.

DRAMATIC A-FRAME—Economical A-frame structure rises 24 feet from luxurious deck, providing ample room for a sleeping balcony over rear portion of house. Plan allows for future expansion of up to four bedrooms.

RUSTIC RETREAT — Three-bedroom hideaway features large balcony overlooking main floor. Deck on three sides is built of redwood planking; exterior finish is grooved plywood put up in large sheets. Stone chimney block adds comfort and leisure.

New Trend Emphasizes Bare Floors

USE of exposed floors set off with patterned area or accent rugs has reached a new high in popular appeal and now ranks among the top fashion trends in room planning, according to trade reports.

The sharply increased preference for this decorative practice is attributed in considerable measure to a renewed appreciation for the natural beauty of oak and other attractive hardwoods, which are employed most extensively in the arrangement.

Wood beauty has such strong appeal, in fact, that some makers of non-wood materials now seek to imitate it, designers point out, with a simulated wood grain appearance.

An indication of the growing popularity of the exposed floor idea is seen in recent comments

Drawers Lined With Cedar Are Moth-Repellent

APARTMENT residents who don't have enough space for cedar chests and do not have moth-repellent closets can solve the woolen storage problem by lining one or more dresser drawers with aromatic red cedar.

Aromatic red cedar closet lining now is available at lumber yards in neat bundles. Each package contains enough pieces of the attractive wood to cover at least 32 square feet.

By lining two or three large drawers with red cedar, a home handyman will have a convenient storage space for woollens.

The actual work is simple. Each piece of red cedar closet lining is tongue-and-grooved for easy application. Fitting the pieces together is a snap.

Simply slip the tongue of one piece into the groove of another. Tap the top piece lightly with a hammer and nail it to the inside surface of the drawer.

Line all sides of the drawer and its bottom to be sure that there is enough cedar aroma present to repel moths.

Once the drawer is lined with red cedar, it is ready for use. Don't paint or varnish the wood. That would seal in the aroma that repels moths.

Homeowners may prefer to line an entire closet with moth-repellent cedar, of course, since it gives them more space. The installation procedure is the same.

Painting Galvanized Steel

Here's how to get a lasting paint job on galvanized metal gutters and pipes. Remove all loose or peeling paint with a wire brush and use steel wool to remove all rust. Be sure the metal is free of loose dirt and oil or grease. Then brush on a coat of zinc dust-zinc oxide paint or a primer designed for galvanized steel. After this has dried use either the same paint that you're applying to the wood siding or colorful exterior enamel or trim paint.

Lightning Kills Farmer And Son

HOLIDAYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A search party found the bodies of a farmer and his young son Thursday on their farm at near by Duncansville R.D. 2. They were killed by lightning.

Authorities said Frank G. Horvath, 57, and Kenneth, 11, were struck by a bolt while standing under a tree.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

To see somebody off for far places is almost more than I can stand without turning green; to meet somebody coming home from abroad is another matter. Usually they've been up since dawn coping with customs and baggage—one of which is always the last thing off—and porters and the automobile traffic along the New York Harbor when both the United States and the Independence dock the same morning.

Under those conditions, I can be a model of proficiency. The last time my niece came home from Italy she was only 8, and at lunch had to be cautioned that in America the waiters speak English and so do her fellow diners, so that it is not polite to complain about how dirty New York City is in such ringing terms.

This time she is 11, and realizes such things. Besides either the streets of New York are really cleaner, because of the litter campaign, or we picked better streets. But it still was interesting to hear her explaining America to the dog.

Nobody, not even the waiters, will speak to you in Italian, she explained to him quite seriously, but she was the one who was in for a shock—in America, they don't even let dogs in restaurants!

And it was sort of fun to see an American menu complete with "tender, sweet fried clams," baffle a brother-in-law who can order the most exotic dishes from an Italian menu with the utmost aplomb.

But we have our compensations, in which I bask with proper pride. Our countryside is so green. New Jersey has at least a section of its new Route 80 finished with a billboard or a used car lot to mar the greenness.

And Monroe has our Thruway, which not only impresses but thoroughly loses a native who's been away for any length of time. And dogwood, and undergrowth which no peasant bother to gather for firewood, and fields not under cultivation, and, of course, me.

Wheelers Home From Rome

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Wheeler and daughter, Robin, and dog, Kelly, Minisink Hills, arrived yesterday in New York aboard the USS Independence after 4½ years in Rome, Italy, where Mr. Wheeler was administrative head of the United States Information Service in Italy.

After two months home leave, they will leave July 15 for a tour of duty in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

They were met at the pier by their son and daughter, Christopher and Linda, students at Oberlin College, and by Mrs. Wheeler's mother and sister, Dr. Nina Mae Price and Mrs. Horace Westbrook.

During their home leave they will have briefing sessions at Washington, D. C. and attend the graduation of their son at Oberlin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Manhart

Manhart-Peterson Wedding

Newfoundland — Miss Carol Ann Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterson, Donaldson, became the bride of William Manhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Manhart of Greenwood on April 21.

The ceremony was performed at 4 p.m. by Rev. Fulmer, assisted by Rev. Lindenmuth in the Moravian Church, Newfoundland. Mrs. Dawson Manhart, aunt of the bridegroom, was soloist, with Mrs. Robert Kreiger, organist. She sang "A Wedding Prayer," "At Dawning," and "Walk Hand in Hand."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white tulle with a high neck and bell-shaped skirt with French Alencon lace and seed pearls. The short jacket of re-embroidered Alencon lace featured elbow length sleeves. A petal tier cap of satin and lace trimmed with seed pearls held her fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and mums.

Linda Egan of New York City was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Ellen McMahon of Watertown, Mass., and Linda Manhart of Greenwood, sister of the bridegroom.

They wore dresses of turquoise silk chiffon with cap sleeves and bell-skirts. They wore matching rose-shaped headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of white mums and orange roses.

The bride's mother wore a taupe dress and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy dress with a corsage of orange carnations.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the American Legion Hall in Newfoundland. After a honeymoon in Virginia Beach, the newlyweds are making their home at Buck Hill Falls where they are both employed at the Inn. The bride is a graduate of Franklin Twp. School and Trenton High School. Mr. Manhart is a graduate of Greene-Dreher High School and is a carpenter.

Fellowship Votes Both Cash And Time

Newfoundland — Discussing whether a cash donation or service in collecting would be more valuable to the community scholarship fund plan, the Greenwood-Newfoundland-South Sterling Youth Fellowship decided that if each were worthwhile, both would be better.

The young people, representing the Newfoundland Moravian Church, Hemlock Grove, South Sterling and LaAnna Methodist Churches, pledged $100 to the fund, and also offered its services in any capacity in boosting or carrying out the plan.

Once the pledge was made, the group set about deciding how to raise the fund. Each member is to come to the May 20 meeting with a suggested fundraising activity.

The group will meet at 7 p. m. at the Moravian Church to go together to the Gross cottage on Lake Wallenpaupack for a spring-spiration.

There's nothing I'd rather do than look at pretty things which is why, perhaps, I could spend hours in our Lingerie department at Wyckoff's, enjoying every moment to the full. My special weakness is dusters, for I wear them day in and day out around the house and never seem to have enough. Right now, we have dozens of them on our racks, and the price tags are temptingly low . . . one, for instance, of a miracle fabric in crinkly white with sprigs of roses, pink buttons, a bow beneath the chin and lace-trimmed sleeves and collar is only 4.00, while others are priced at 6.00 or, for something quite elaborate and chi-chi, just 11.00.

Just the other day in this column I did mention the Nap Wraps of terry which are so cute and priced at 6-and-8 dollars depending upon whether or not they are solid color with gingham check binding, or printed with a very wide, whimsical border of "eggheads." But it wasn't until today that I discovered our new shipment of dusters by Morgin, and I've been in a dither ever since. (I'm not exactly sure what a "dither of delight" is . . . anyway, I'm charmed by our merchandise!)

Perhaps the most unusual of the Morgin dusters is a straight-line style of flecked hopsacking. My favorite color combination in this particular style is of brilliant sun orange with occasional flecks of brown. It is, as I said, cut comfortably full and straight, with a high neckline bound in a shade of green just a bit deeper than chartreuse. There are four patch pockets on the front . . . two in bright yellow, two to match the binding, each has an ornamental covered button. Sleeves are short and straight, and the garment unbuttons all the way down the front. The other color combination is predominantly yellow, and both are priced at 6.00 . . . very little, it seems to me, for anything encompassing so much brilliant young-mindedness and joy of living. If you wear a size 12 to 18 and are looking for a glad, mad bit of fashion as at home on the beach as it is on the patio or around the house, this may well be your glass of iced tea! (With a dash of mint to cast an extra spell of good taste!)

Morgin has also created a multi-striped duster that reminds me of the Biblical Joseph's coat. Here again we have two combinations: one with oranges, greens, and neutrals . . . the other of blue, tan, burgundy, rose, and white. And once again the price is 6.00, but this time the size range is 10 to 18. This particular duster has a portrait neckline topped by a self-band that stands away from the neck. The robe unzips 2/3 of the way down the front and there are two enormous pockets of matching fabric with tiny spaghetti bows as trim.

And while we're shopping Lingerie, I must attract your attention to the racks of inexpensive dresses there. From them, I've chosen several dresses for my "work wardrobe." The other day, FIVE persons, by actual count, stopped me to say how much they admired the neat little gingham dress I was wearing. It's an Activi-Tee from our budget cotton department and cost 6.98 when I selected it months ago. Just recently I purchased a turquoise "silk jersey" from the same department at 6.98, and a striped cotton at 5.98. If I had any doubts about their suitability to wear to the office, they were dispelled the minute I added my jewelry and white glove.

Cora Albertson tells me she just this minute received a new shipment of half size sleeveless Activi-Tees with tailored, casual neckline also at 6.98. These are of drip-dry Drylon in white with either pink or blue splatter print, sizes 12½ to 22½. Why not look them over next time you visit Wyckoff's?

'Poppy Week' In Bloom In N'fld Legion Area

NEWFOUNDLAND—A "poppy week," the week preceding Memorial Day, has been set aside by the auxiliary of Phillips-Zacharias-Phillips Post 839, American Legion, for a door-to-door campaign to sell poppies.

Mrs. Donald Barnes Sr., is poppy chairman for the auxiliary this year.

In discussing this year's campaign during a meeting of the auxiliary at which Mrs. Robert Rochford presided, Mrs. Barnes noted that poppies became a symbol of sacrifice following World War I. American and other Allied soldiers, fighting for the freedom of Europe, were entrenched in defensive positions which ran from Switzerland to the North Sea. In time, the enemy offensive was stopped, turned back by a massive wall of resistance, and the eventually victorious counter-attack began.

American forces advanced over the battlefields of Europe, driving the enemy from the occupied territory. But a great price was paid with the lives of fighting men who fell on the poppy-covered fields of France and Flanders. Then the comrades of these fallen heroes returned home, the poppy was remembered, and the national custom of wearing a memorial poppy in honor of the men who did not return, was born.

More than 100,000 women volunteer annually to distribute the memorial flowers, which have been made by disabled veterans. They note that this not only honors the dead, but assists the living.

Claims Train Cut Will Save Money

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Pennsylvania Railroad official testified Thursday that the company would save $457,585 a year by elimination of two day passenger trains between Harrisburg and Buffalo, N. Y.

Arthur Hartzell, Philadelphia, PRR statistician, said that passenger revenue was higher in 1961 on the two trains than in 1959, but that they still lost some $27,000 a year.

Hartzell testified at the second in a series of hearings held by the federal Interstate Commerce Commission on elimination of the trains.

The two trains earn $711,214 a year in revenue along the Harrisburg-Buffalo route and $222,714 in so-called contributory revenue—the pro-rated amount for passengers carried on the route from other places of origin.

The decision of the court, the state's highest, was unanimous. The city took over the strike-bound bus lines March 21. The city's action was taken under special legislation enacted by the legislature.

Later that month, the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court declared the legislation unconstitutional on the ground that no provision was made for serving notice on the company.

Commentaries —on Sports Tony Cesare Sports Editor

WE HAVE HAD an interesting discussion around here involving the N. Y. Titans, the Poconos, a party and a 1962 "Miss Titans" contest.

Businessmen, lawyers and chiefs have been planning a Pocono special welcome to the Titans when they arrive and the beauty contest was one of the chief topics.

Not only will the N. Y. Titans help the Poconos by gracing them with their visit, but the two will derive plenty of publicity. What rubs off on the one will naturally benefit the other, but the two together provide an ideal combination.

But back to the contest, which provided the most sparkling conversation.

Murray Goodman, public relations czar for the N. Y. gridders, suggested a beauty pageant in which ONLY redheads could compete. It ties in nicely with the word "Titans" and would be like the colors of team.

Some of the planning committee agreed. But after further consideration the idea floundered and finally was dropped.

The reason? Very simple. There aren't that many redheads in the Pocono Mts.

When the move fizzled, the committee did plan a beauty contest—period. The stipulations were that she should be from the Poconos and all her other qualifications would be to her advantage. It was added, that perhaps the "Miss Titans" could be entered in one of the state or national contests later.

It further planned having a contestant from each of the large resorts in the Poconos. The establishment could sponsor the girl and reap the advantages of even national publicity if they had the winner.

Goodman said he would plan to have a Hollywood beauty queen crown the winner. He would not divulge her name—but she is his favorite—and said only that she was formerly from the area. He also hoped to have other celebrities at the "welcome-Titans" party which would create one of the top-festivities the regions has seen in a long time.

(For those of you still trying to guess the mystery guest's name, here for a few hints: She is a blonde, buxom, beautiful and is currently in Italy making a movie. She is married and was recently stranded on an island—with her husband.)

Things were just Murry at this point. And the Poconos were slowly being involved in one of the greatest fetes of this kind.

With full cooperation, July will be one of the Poconos' most interesting months. All this and football, too!

Majors To Study Revising Minors

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A new player development program that would involve realignment and reclassification of the minors will be considered Friday by baseball's major leagues at their special joint meeting.

Commissioner Ford Frick called the meeting to consider the report of the major-minor committee that has been working on the problem for over a year. If the report is approved, it is expected to take the form of a broad general outline with details to be filled in later.

The new program would start in 1963 with 1965 as a target date for its completion.

Although details have not been announced, it was understood that tentative plans call for each of the 20 big league teams to run five or six minor league farms, making definite financial commitments to assure each club's operation.

Local ownership would pay the park rental and take care of some expenses but the major league team would carry the heavy load of salaries.

Under the proposed program, the six classes of minor league ball would be cut to three. They probably would be Triple A, Double A and Class A, eliminating such labels as Class B, C and D. However, many cities now in B, C, or D would be involved in the new program.

If each big league club decides to operate five minor league teams, that would mean a total of 100 minor league teams to be financed. If each decides to operate six minors, the total would be 120 clubs. These would be divided among the leagues, possibly on the basis of 20 clubs in Triple A, 40 in Double A and 60 in A.

The minors hit a high mark in 1949 with 59 leagues operated with 450 clubs. In 1962 there are 20 minors with about 154 teams.

For the past several years the majors have shelled out $800,000 annually in outright subsidies to the minors. This would be eliminated under the new plan where each major league club would be responsible for a certain number of farms.

Basketball Scandals Flare Anew

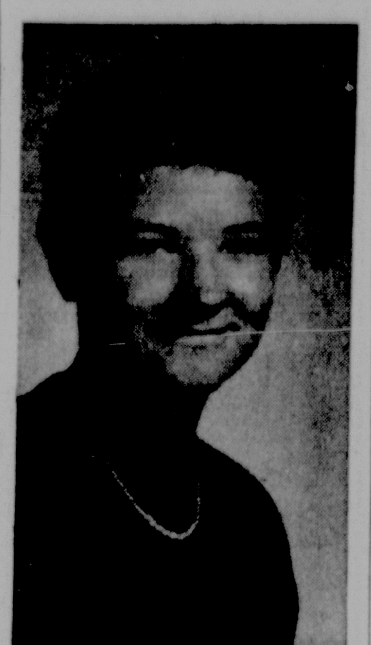

Girls Varsity "S" Holds Fete; Honor Miss Everitt

THE Girls Varsity "S" Club of the Stroud Union High School held their 11th Annual Spring Banquet in the high school cafeteria. Twenty new members were inducted to the club last week during a Candlelight Ceremony. New officers for next year are: President—Mary Jane Gilpin; Vice President—Dorothy Hay; Secretary—Connie Puzio; Treasurer—Donna Morgan.

Administrative and faculty guests at the banquet were Earl Groner, Alfred Munson, Samuel Wells, T. Manning Curtis, Miss Julia Seig, Vernon Hontz, and Wilmont Smith. Other guests were Warren Loney, President of the men's Varsity "S" Club; Rod MacCleod, Daily Record; ESSC student teachers—Misses Domitrovitz, Feuchtmayer, Pickel, Shotta, Hicks, Mitchell, Fleer and Zearfoss. Miss Virginia LaBar, vice president of the club last year was another of the honored guests.

Principal Speaker

The speaker for the occasion was Dr. Alta Gaynor, Head of the Women's Physical Education Department, University of Pittsburgh. She spoke about life's successes and failures and how we mature as we encounter both. In talking about attitudes, Dr. Gaynor said the girls should not think in terms of "how much can I get out of my school?" but—"how much can I give back to my school?" She commended the girls on the five extra-curricular

Cardinals Down Giants 1-0 On Unearned Run In Ninth

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—St. Louis scored an unearned run off Billy O'Dell in the ninth inning Thursday and beat San Francisco 1-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Gibson.

It was Gibson's fifth victory against two losses. He struck out 10 Giants and often had them swinging late at his fast ball.

In the ninth, Red Schoendienst singled to left with none out. Julian Javier, running for Schoendienst, moved to third when Ed Bailey's low throw went in center field.

Javier scored on Charley James' two out single to deep shortstop.

Clearview School Holds First Junior Olympics

THIRTY first Junior Olympic opened at Clearview School Wednesday afternoon with kindergarten students carrying the symbolic torch across the field. Threatening clouds did not dampen the spirits of students as they competed in a variety of field events before their classmates and a large gathering of parents.

Among the many activities were, dashes according to grade level, softball throws, standing broad jumps, and high jumps. Students winning first, second, and third places in final competition received track and field certificates.

The program was organized and directed by Percy Chronister assisted by Gerald Keller, student teachers of health and physical education from East Stroudsburg State College. Helping them were Miss Nancy Mitchell, Mr. Peter Henning, Jack Jones, William Lewis, William Imshweiller, and Larry Putsavage, also from the local college.

Do It The Hard Way!

EDINBORO, Pa. (AP)—The Edinboro State College tennis team has won 20 straight matches and things could get even better—courts are going to be built.

The team has trouble practicing because there aren't any regulation courts in the community.

The city of Erie 20 miles away permits the team members to use its courts so they drive to Erie for practice.

The players take more than just balls and rackets when they go to Erie. They also take nets because during the college tennis season the courts in Erie seldom have nets up.

Bids will be opened for construction of courts at the college late in the summer and they may be ready for next season.

This will help considerably. Not only will the players get in more practice but they also will be able to play the role of home team in some matches.

Controversy Rages On Best Choice

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP)—Eleven horses were entered as expected Thursday for the 86th Preakness Stakes, and the oldest old-timers can't recall a more controversial contest dating back more than 20 years.

Decidedly, the gray destroyer from California, won the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, but some oddsmakers claim he won't be better than third choice in the betting line when the classy field parades postward late Saturday afternoon.

Decidedly, from the El Pecos Ranch of George A. Pope, George

D. Widener's Jaipur, and Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan compose the terrific big three getting major attention at this old Maryland cavalry post.

Oddsmakers can't come up with a certain favorite, and the customers as usual will settle the issue when they march on the parimutuel machines for the great 3-year-old classic.

Seven of the horses in the 14-mile Derby line-up are back for a second helping of the big money. The Preakness, at 1 3-16 miles with $150,000-added money, will pay $188,300 if all start. The winner collects $125,800, second receives $62,900, and third $31,450.

Dear Abby

He's Got A Sob Story!

Dear Abby: If you want to do your readers a big favor, please print my story: I quit a wonderful job and flew to Reno, Nevada, to divorce my wife. I set up a six week's residency thinking that was all I needed. My wife flew to Reno to contest the divorce. I had to pay for her first-class jet fare and all her expenses. I have spent up in the thousands and still no divorce. Tell those who think it is easy to get a divorce in Reno to save their money and stay home unless they have an agreement before they go.

marriages work, as they do on trying to dissolve them, we could turn our divorce courts into bowling alleys.

Dear Abby: Your "OLD MAID" is asleep on her rights. There is a National Old Maid's Day. It was founded in 1948 by Miss Marion Richards of Norristown, Pa. The official date is June 4th. The purpose of establishing Old Maid's Day was not to get "lost," as your correspondent suggested, but to honor less fortunate and unappreciated old maids. For instance, last year I entertained a group of maiden ladies for dinner.

Sincerely,
MISS M. W.

Dear Miss M. W.: Lovely. Does

'Co-Existence' Is Sought

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dr. Charles L. Naylor of Ravenna, Ohio, president of the American Osteopathic Association, Thursday called for "peaceful co-existence" with medical doctors but not merger or amalgamation.

Dr. Naylor addressed the House of Delegates of the Pennsylvania Osteopathic Association at the opening of a three-day state convention in Pittsburgh.

"We have struggled for years," Dr. Naylor said, "for a peaceful co-existence program with the M.D.s for the benefit of the health care of the people of the nation in all walks of society."

"We have through out osteopathic concept and philosophy much to offer through the musculo-skeletal system in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of disease. That is our reason for being distinct. But the AMA (American Medical Association) doesn't accept that."

Slate Belt Cerebral Palsy Campaign Leaders Named

BANGOR — Chairmen and co-chairmen have been appointed in the Slate Belt area for United Cerebral Palsy's annual "33 Minute March" to be conducted on May 22, it was announced by Mrs. Dorothy Halliday, campaign director.

Mrs. Halliday, along with the general chairman, Dr. J. Zern Heberling, feel that "one of the inspiring things is that each one who was asked to serve indicated his immediate willingness and said he would give all the necessary time to make this drive the most successful ever."

Those who will serve are as follows:
Bangor area — Mrs. Betty De Paolo and Mrs. Betty Williams, co-chairmen.

Wind Gap — Mrs. Gaynor Pollack and Mrs. Edna Mancinelli, co-chairmen.

Roseto — Mrs. Elaine Starzer and Miss Dorothy Ruggerio, co-chairmen.

Ackermanville — Mrs. Janet Brod, chairman.

East Bangor — Miss Adele Tucker and Mrs. Carolyn Phillips, co-chairmen.

Pen Argyl area — Mrs. Gladys Hahn and Mrs. Miriam Dietrich, co-chairmen.

"The fact these kind folks are willing to take time out from their busy schedules to help the cerebral palsied of our area is a tangible indication of their deep concern."

"United Cerebral Palsy's annual '33 Minute March' documents the tragic fact that cerebral palsy strikes every 33 minutes, and can strike anyone, anywhere, anytime. Its 1962 theme — 'If She Lives Next Door, Would You Help?' underscores that those handicapped by cerebral palsy live 'next door' to all of us. There are at least 131 adults and 138 children in the Northampton-Monroe county area. They are our neighbors — your and mine — and they need our help," Dr. Heberling said.

"I am certain that their enthusiastic response to our cause will be matched by the public when United Cerebral Palsy's '33 Minute Marchers' call at their homes on May 22" he concluded.

Hailstones as big as grapefruits fell in a Nebraska storm a few years ago.

Exempt Dividends

By William A. Doyle
Q. A man I know claims that the dividends paid on Pacific Gas & Electric common stock are partially exempt from Federal income tax. I disagree. I say that maybe the company in some way may have a partial tax exemption but not the dividends paid to stockholders.

I just love the way you straighten out people who think they "know it all." Will you do the same for this guy?
A. Can't do it. The man's right. Pacific Gas & Electric paid dividends of $2.75 a share on its common stock last year. (The stock has since been split, three for one.) And 7.7 percent of that dividend was not subject to Federal income tax.

Let's say that you owned 100 shares of this stock and received $275 in dividends last year. Of that amount $21.17 would not be subject to Federal income tax. That $21.17 (7.7 percent of the total payment) is considered a "return of capital."

Technically, the 7.7 percent on which you would not be required to pay Federal income tax is not a "tax-free dividend." It is "a distribution which tends to reduce the tax-cost basis." How's that for a mouthful. Each such payment reduces your tax-cost-basis.

So you buy one share of common stock of a certain utility company, for $100 and hold that share for 10 years. Say that, during that time, you receive a total of $50 in dividend payments — of which $20 is "tax-free" because of the same situation that exists with PG&E common stock. Your tax-cost-basis is then $80. If you sell the stock, you will be required to pay a Federal capital-gains tax on the difference between $80 and whatever higher price you receive when you sell.

A number of utility companies and other companies have similar situations. It all has to do with "fast tax write-off situations."

The companies obtained tax rulings (mostly for construction during the Korean War) which allow them to "write off" a larger than usual amount of their investment in plant and equipment. The "write-off" is a deduction from total corporate revenues and reduces the companies' tax bills.

And it can be passed on to stockholders, in the form of payments described above. The "dividend manuals" you will find in all brokerage offices list stocks with similar tax situations.

Q. You have advised elderly people who need income to exchange their Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds into Series H bonds. You explain that they will not have to pay income taxes on the E bonds at the time of the exchange. But they will have to pay income taxes on the interest checks they receive every six months from the H bonds. Where's the saving in taxes?

A. The saving is in the postponement of taxes on the accumulated interest on the E bonds. Many people have held E bonds for many years. So, there's a lot of accumulated interest on the E bonds. If they cash the E bonds, that interest is subject to a fair-size tax bite.

But, if they "exchange" the E bonds for H bonds, they postpone that tax bite until they redeem the H bonds — years later. Meanwhile, all their money is put to work in H bonds — which pay interest twice a year, at the annual rate of 3.75 percent. That interest, of course, is subject to Federal income tax, because it is current income.

RETIRING TEACHER HONORED—Miss Fannie Melhuish (center) who is retiring as a teacher at Pocono Mountains Joint Schools, was honored last night at a dinner at High Point Inn. Flanking her are Lawrence Wile (left), high school principal, and Walter Sebring, assistant county superintendent of schools. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

ACCOMPANISTS—Three young people will be the accompanists for the annual Stroud Union Elementary Schools Concert tomorrow night at the high school. Left to right are Beverly Kovarik, 11; Dan Rahn, 12; and Claudia Miller, 12.

Retiring Teacher Honored

MISS Fannie Melhuish, a teacher for 18 years in the Pocono Mountain Joint School System, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner in High Point Inn, Mount Pocono.

Miss Melhuish was honored by fellow teachers, administrators, the school board, county officials and friends. She will retire from the profession at the close of this school year.

An orchid corsage from five teachers, was presented to her. Following the presentation short speeches from Walter Sebring, assistant county superintendent of schools; Francis Regan, president of Pocono Mountain Joint School District Board of Education; C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal of the school; Lawrence Wile, principal, Pocono Mountain Joint High School, and James Davenport, elementary supervisor of the jointure, were given.

Gifts were presented from friends in the school district and the county office.

Wile read a letter from John Montgomery, a former teacher in the district and presently a member of the board of education, who was unable to attend the dinner.

Scranton Can't Escape Backslapping

Associated Press Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—For Rep. William W. Scranton, R-Pa., there's no getting away from it.

On or off the floor of the House, he is greeted and congratulated by Republicans on his decisive victory in the contest for the Republican nomination for governor Tuesday.

Friends among the Democrats join in also.

But for the Republicans, it's "Hi governor!" or "Congratulations, Bill! good luck in November!"

In the Nov. 6 general election, Scranton will be up against a veteran, crack campaigner in former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth, who similarly swamped token opposition in the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

So the 44-year freshman House member from Lackawanna County won't be letting up in his campaign efforts.

Does he intend staying on in Congress or resigning in order to devote full time to the campaign? "That depends," said Scranton, "on how long the session lasts."
